

Another petition to keep the morse code. It's been well established that the whole WORLD including the US Military, emergency operations, etc.. have DROPPED the use of the morse code. The details are in other petitions. Why should we require AT ALL the FORCED learning of a code that a ham may have no interest whatsoever in utilizing? There is NO REASON. Another of the many petitions out to complicate things in an effort to force code on hams to get access to bands that soon everyone else in the world with have access to without learning morse code. CW is a fine mode, so is EME. I have no interest in either, so have not learned either. I've learned about them, but thats all I need to know to carry out my activities in a proper way.
